

APRIL 2 & 3, 2013 SAFE & TOGETHER

Training to improve the safety and well being of families.

David Mandel & Associates present the Safe & Together Model

You are invited to join us for two-day training, bringing together child welfare professionals, domestic violence advocates and their community partners in a discussion about the intersection of child maltreatment and domestic violence. Using the Safe and Together™ model, with its emphasis on perpetrator behavior patterns as a framework, participants will work by individual discipline and collaboratively to enhance skills related to intervening to increase child and adult safety and well-being. This training will include plenary sessions, skill building and discussion breakout sessions, and panel discussions. The training will give special emphasis to how the Safe and Together™ model can enhance collaboration in communities where co-located domestic violence advocates or specialists work inside child welfare agencies.
