

Oregon's bar and restaurant industry continues to grow

According to economic analyses, smokefree policies do not harm businesses, including bars and restaurants.¹ Since the ICAA expanded to include restaurants and bars in 2007, their numbers have grown. The number of establishments that serve food has increased.² Moreover, the number of businesses that sell alcohol has increased by a third since 2007, and the number of brewpubs has more than tripled.³

Food service establishments (eg restaurants, bars, brewpubs)²

Establishments with on-premises liquor consumption³

Brew Pubs³

CITATIONS

- ¹ Department of Health and Human Services (US). Smokefree Policies Do Not Hurt the Hospitality Industry
https://www.cdc.gov/tobacco/data_statistics/fact_sheets/secondhand_smoke/protection/hospitality/index.htm
- ² Oregon Health Authority, Environmental Public Health section, Licensed Facility Statistics annual reports
(<http://www.oregon.gov/oha/PH/HEALTHYENVIRONMENTS/FOODSAFETY/Pages/stats.aspx>)
- ³ Oregon Liquor Control Commission. Unpublished data.