Call For Proposals

Online Northwest is a one-day conference focusing on topics that intersect libraries, technology and culture. The conference is sponsored by the Oregon University System Library Council.

The 2011 conference will be held at CH2M Hill Alumni Center, Corvallis, Oregon (on the Oregon State University campus) on Friday, February 11, 2011.

The conference explores how technology is being applied within library settings and how technology is affecting library patrons and services. Academic, public, school, and special librarians are strongly encouraged to submit proposals. Online Northwest is seeking 60 minute presentations or 5 minute lightning talks on all topics relating to technology and libraries including:

- Cloud computing
- Institutional repositories
- Augmented reality
- Semantic web
- Virtual research environments
- Information discovery
- Web 3.0
- Library apps
- Mobile computing
- Technology competencies
- Electronic books
- Other topics related to technology in libraries are welcome

Submit Proposal Here
Proposal Submission Deadline: Friday, October 1st, 2010

For examples of past presentations or more information, see:
http://www.ous.edu/onlinenw/

Check out updates on our blog and subscribe to our twitter

Blog link: http://onlinenw.blogspot.com/
Twitter: http://www.twitter.com/onlinenw