Webinar Description:

Memory cafés are informal gatherings where people living with dementia and their care partners can connect, socialize, and participate in engaging activities in a stigma-free environment. Often held in community spaces like libraries, they focus on building relationships, reducing isolation, and fostering a sense of belonging. Join us to learn from our panelists about how memory cafés are created, implemented, and sustained. We will explore how these programs connect individuals and families to essential community services, and highlight key data and research needs to expand their impact.
