Training Schedule

8:00 – 8:30	Registration Digital Forensics – What Is It & How Can You Help? (Matt Osterman, Digital Forensics Investigator, CFCE, GASF with the Washington County District Attorney’s Office) This presentation will focus on what Digital Forensics is, providing information and definitions. It will discuss the question, “How can we elicit information that could be used in investigations and court proceedings?”
8:30 – 9:30
9:30 - 9:45	Break – light refreshments provided Decrypting a Predator: A Collaborative Child Abuse Investigation and Prosecution – Part 1 (Supervisory Special Agent Denise Biehn, FBI, and Paul Maloney, Assistant United States Attorney) This presentation will discuss the evolution of the investigation and the important collaboration that resulted in bringing a prolific predator to account for his crimes against children. The depth and breadth of the predator’s abuse of children required a multi-disciplinary and multi-agency response.
9:45 – 10:45
10:45 – 11:00	Break – light refreshments provided Decrypting a Predator: A Collaborative Child Abuse Investigation and Prosecution – Part 2 In part 2, a panel of multi-disciplinary professionals will discuss their roles in the collaborative efforts involved in obtaining a positive outcome in the case.
11:00 – 12:00
12:00 – 1:00	LUNCH ON YOUR OWN
1:00 – 2:15	When Diagnosis and Disposition Differ: What Lessons are There to be Learned? (Dan Leonhardt, MD, CARES NW, and Molly Miller, Child Safety Consultant, DHS/Multnomah) This talk will look at specific cases where a medical diagnosis of child physical abuse was made, yet the DHS disposition did not seem to reflect that diagnosis. The goal of this presentation is to improve multidisciplinary collaboration by emphasizing the importance of the expert medical evaluation in cases of child physical abuse as well as foster discussion and understand about the decision-making process that is part of each child physical abuse investigation by Child Protective Services.
2:15 – 2:30
2:30 – 4:30	Break – light refreshments provided The Impact of Domestic Violence on Children: A Child Welfare Approach (Andrea Bellows, trainer at Portland State University, CWEP, and Shelly Field, trainer at Portland State University, CWEP) This presentation will focus on the child welfare definition of domestic violence, how domestic violence impacts children—specifically how the batterer's pattern of coercive control harms the children in the home, and techniques to move toward recovery.
