Where do you interview, and what kind(s) of interviewing do you do?

For purposes of this training, interview types are defined as follows:

An initial responder interview is a minimal-facts interview conducted in the field by initial responders (such as law enforcement officers (LEs) and/or Department of Human Services Child Welfare Personnel (DHS-CWPs)) to elicit just enough information to establish safety and determine the need for a criminal investigation and/or an immediate medical evaluation. This interview typically takes place during the initial responder’s first contact with the child/family and may be followed by an in-depth forensic interview.

A forensic interview is a developmentally sensitive and legally sound structured conversation with a child intended to elicit detailed information about a possible event(s) that the child may have experienced or witnessed. Forensic interviews are coordinated to avoid duplicative interviewing, follow research-based guidelines, and are conducted by trained professionals who participate in ongoing peer review, ideally in a child-friendly environment (such as a Child Abuse Intervention Center).

Please select any of the following which apply to you:

I conduct Forensic Interviews at a Child Abuse Intervention Center (CAIC). If selecting this option, please fill out the Center information at the bottom of the page.

I conduct Initial Responder Interviews.

I conduct Forensic Interviews at a non-CAIC location. If selecting this option, please specify or describe where your Forensic Interviews take place:
