

THE FUTURE WE WANT: BUILDING COMMUNITIES FOR ALL AGES

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the number of Americans age 65 or older is projected to grow by almost 50 percent from 2016 to 2030. An average American child who is 10 years old today has a 50% chance of living to 100 or beyond. Many Oregon communities are at the front edge of this demographic shift. How can our communities prepare for the future?

Join us to hear from local and national leaders who are involved in age-friendly efforts. Learn about strategies for making communities more livable for people of all ages, abilities, races and incomes.

Panelists: William Armbruster, Senior Advisor, AARP Livable Communities; Marilyn Daily, Director, Center 50+; Marcus Mundy, Executive Director, Coalition of Communities of Color; and Margaret Neal, PhD, Professor Emerita of Urban Studies, Portland State University. Moderator: Liz James, Livable Communities Volunteer Leader, AARP Oregon
