

The Dark Days of Winter are coming!

This March, readers get the opportunity to meet outstanding YA authors Dan Wells, Lauren Oliver, Claudia Gray, Debra Driza, and Kiersten White on the Dark Days of Winter 2013 Tour! Attend one of the five signings to discuss these authors' groundbreaking titles in depth, learn some tricks of the trade, and get advice on how to get published young. Books and authors featured include:

Dan Wells/FRAGMENTS

The middle installment in the pulse-pounding Partials saga is the story of the eleventh hour of humanity's time on earth, a journey deep into places unknown to discover the means—and even more importantly, a reason—for our survival.

Lauren Oliver/REQUIEM

The highly anticipated culmination of the powerful DELIRIUM trilogy! As her country erupts in open rebellion, Lena fights for the resistance and must make a heartbreaking choice between two loves.

Claudia Gray/SPELLCASTER

This new series about a teenage witch who battles against dark forces in a small town dazzles with suspense and romance.

Debra Driza/MILA 2.0

A “Bourne Identity”-type sci-fi thriller series about a teenage girl who discovers that she is a Mobile Intel Life-like Android, an experiment in artificial intelligence created by the U.S. government, and her scientist mother, who kidnapped Mila when she was found to have human emotions.

Kiersten White/MIND GAMES

They stole her past. They control her present. But she won't let them take her future. The Lying Game meets television's Alias in this riveting psychological thriller about two sisters forced to make impossible choices in order to protect each other.
